

CONFIDENTIAL · SEED ROUND OVERVIEW · 2026

Building the operating system for spoken English education.

IEC runs immersive, school-based English camps across Europe. The English Habit turns every camp family into a recurring subscriber — one flywheel, proof of demand feeding a scalable, AI-ready learning platform.

THE PROBLEM

Language learning is failing Europe's children — and their parents know it.

78% of European students study English for six or more years and still can't hold a conversation. The market isn't short of options — it's short of anything that actually works.

01 / Crippling cost

£1,290–£3,440 a year

1-to-1 tutoring runs £13–£34/hour. Real fluency needs 100+ hours a year — a bill most families refuse to pay.

02 / Broken methods

Six years, no conversation

Grammar drills and static textbooks build no real confidence. 78% of students still can't hold a conversation after 6+ years.

03 / No continuity

Gains vanish by October

Summer immersion works, then fades. No affordable, engaging bridge exists between a camp and daily year-round practice.

The global EFL market exceeds £150B and is growing 8% YoY — yet the quality-affordability gap for children aged 5–17 remains almost entirely unaddressed.

One flywheel, two revenue lines, zero paid acquisition.

Camps generate trust and warm leads at zero marginal cost. The English Habit converts that trust into recurring revenue.

01

School partnership

Schools and parents pay per-student fees. Counsellors from 20+ nationalities deliver two weeks of full immersion.

02

IEC summer camp

English all day, every day — first real confidence, not just grammar.

03

Free month of TEH

Every camp family gets a free month of The English Habit — a zero-friction, zero-CAC funnel.

04

30% convert to paid

Live group classes, Mon–Fri after school. Families move onto a rolling subscription.

05

Recurring revenue

MRR compounds monthly and funds camp expansion — higher margin, recurring cash.

06

Schools re-book, refer

Results bring the school back next year — and bring new schools with them.

MARKET OPPORTUNITY

A £150B+ market — and we already own the dominant Italy funnel.

TAM

£150B+

Global EFL market, growing 8% YoY.

SAM

£21B

European EdTech market — addressable via schools and families.

SOM

£0.9B

Italy-first, school-distribution segment IEC can capture directly.

78% of European kids lack conversational fluency after 6+ years of study.

£43B spent annually by Italian families on private tuition — no dominant provider.

EXPANSION — ON THE ROADMAP

International study trips are coming back — backed by EU funding.

IEC used to run international study trips for teens alongside the camps. We paused to focus on the flywheel — and plan to bring it back in 2026/27, aimed at Europe's growing pool of language-mobility funding.

£4.5B

Erasmus+'s total 2026 EU-wide budget for education, training, youth and mobility.

£352M

Spain's own 2026 national Erasmus+ allocation — one country, one year.

COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGE

Why nobody can copy this — even with more money.

Novakid and Lingoda have raised a combined £82M+. Neither has a camp network or a school relationship. That's the moat.

School trust	Zero-CAC distribution	Structural integration
50+ verified Italian school contracts built over five years.	Every camp family is already converted before TEH asks for a card.	Camp attendance is the acquisition channel — no online competitor has it.
Grant eligibility	Compounding relationships	AI roadmap, already scoped
EU PON affiliation international entrants can't easily replicate.	Schools re-book, refer and expand — every year gets easier.	A costed, dated AI-teacher roadmap (Q2 2027) competitors haven't announced.

Not “we run camps.” This.

A child attends an IEC camp at age 5.

They keep speaking English every week, online, through The English Habit.

AI personalises every single lesson to them.

Their school tracks real progress. Parents watch confidence grow.

By age 16, they've spoken English thousands of times — not just studied it.

That's the ecosystem we're building.
